

GAME OF SKATE

Skate dice rules

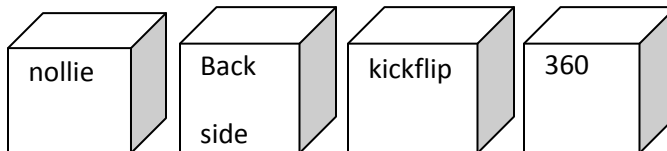

Each skater will play a set,(best two out of three games) and the winner will move on.

They will rock paper scissors to see who rolls first. The skater that wins will then roll the dice. He has to do the trick that comes up or else he gets a letter. The next skater doesn't have to do the first trick even if the first skater lands it. The second skater then rolls the dice.

The skaters will also be given three life lines to use. You can only use them once a game. The life lines are:

1. You can re-roll the dice if you don't like the trick that came out.
2. You can call on a friend to do a trick that you rolled. They can say no. If they refuse, you can still call on someone else. But if it's your last trick, they have to try it twice, you can't try once then have them use your mulligan.
3. You can take one of the dice out after you roll. Say your roll was like this:

you could take the 360 out, so instead of doing a nollie 360 backside kickflip, you would just have to do a nollie backside flip.